

I contributed about 95% of the work to all these files the rest 5% are done together with my teammate to debug the errors that I created or did not catch. DBManage is only used for testing menu not for login or register. I contributed 90% of works towards the XML UI design files. The other 10% are worked together with teammate to finish up the design.